Law Student Receives Outstanding Oral Advocate Award; Team Advances to Final Four

USD Law student Jon Hansen was recognized as the outstanding oral advocate at the William E. McGee National Civil Rights Moot Court Competition sponsored by Mitchell Hamline Law School. The tournament was held February 18-20 in the Twin Cities.

Hansen is a third-year student from Dell Rapids, South Dakota. He was recognized for his performance in three preliminary rounds and three advanced rounds of the tournament. In each round, Hansen presented an oral argument on behalf of either the petitioner or the respondent in a case involving a Mississippi statute that would cause the closure of the only clinic providing abortion services in the state. Unlike most moot court tournaments, which are based on hypothetical cases, this competition required students to write appellate briefs and then argue the issues in an actual case decided by the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, Currier v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization.

USD Law Trial Team Makes Semifinals at National Competition

A trial team from the University of South Dakota School of Law reached the semifinals of the 36-team John L. Costello National Criminal Trial Advocacy Competition earlier this month in Fairfax, Virginia, just outside of Washington. Team members included students Anthony Sutton, Tyler Haigh and Brian Griffin.

Sponsored by the George Mason University School of Law, “the Costello Competition stimulates the evolving and unexpected nature of real-life criminal trials by revealing unknown facts and witnesses, as the trial progresses.”

Throughout the tournament, USD represented the Commonwealth of Virginia in prosecuting the hypothetical abduction and rape of a 20-year-old George Mason sophomore through the use of a date rape drug. The competition included such formidable schools as Georgetown, American, Texas, Houston, Virginia, Emory, Cornell, Penn, Brooklyn, LSU, Tulane, BYU, Richmond, William & Mary and other invited teams from throughout the United States.

“We are especially proud of Tyler, Anthony, and Brian, who spent countless night and weekend hours preparing for this ferociously competitive and highly demanding competition,” said USD professor Tom Horton, who accompanied the team. “We also would like to thank Professor Ramon Ortiz and former trial team members Andy Fick and Rachel Preheim for giving up so much of their time to help prepare our students for the arduous challenges they successfully surmounted.”
Law Student Honored at New York Fashion Week

A University of South Dakota School of Law student was crowned Ultimate Miss Worldwide Midwest ambassador for Live Out Loud Charity during New York Fashion Week. Lynae Tucker, originally from Rapid City, South Dakota, was awarded the pageant title in recognition of her work on suicide prevention.

In 2015, she conducted 13 suicide interventions and led suicide prevention presentations for more than 3,000 college-age students and college faculty. She also worked with staff at DePaul University to reevaluate its suicide prevention programs and address program gaps.

Tucker attended USD her first two years of undergraduate study and graduated with a bachelor’s in communications and media studies from DePaul University. She’s back at USD for her first year of law school. Tucker is a 2013 initiate of Epsilon Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta at USD and stayed active with Alpha Xi Delta at DePaul.

For the next year she will be doing suicide prevention work throughout the Midwest, including South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska and Illinois. Tucker is available for travel to all Midwestern states to give training to people of all ages on how to prevent suicide, recognize the signs and address depression and other mental illness. Her specialty is mental health awareness in the collegiate community. She is also available to give presentations over Skype. Contact her at lynae.tucker92@gmail.com.

The mission of Live Out Loud Charity is to serve those at risk of committing suicide and to help stop this preventable cause of death. Since its founding in 2010, it has reached millions of people nationwide. “We are proud to say we are branching out, becoming a nationwide organization through the partnership with several institutions that share our mission of suicide awareness and prevention,” Tucker said.

OUTlaws Selling USD Law Mugs

Back by popular demand, the USD OUTlaws will once again be offering USD School of Law coffee mugs! These are the only USD School of Law 15 oz. coffee mugs on campus. They are $15 each. They make a great addition to your home, work or carrell! Quantities are limited. All persons interested may contact Allyson Crespo (allyson.crespo@usd.edu; carrel #140) or Alex Weiss (alex.weiss@coyotes.usd.edu; SBA Office) to reserve and pay for them. We will be tabling soon and will make an announcement when that is scheduled. The mug design is shown below.
Barry Vickrey Retiring from Law School

University of South Dakota School of Law students, faculty, staff, alumni and people from the regional law community honored Barry Vickrey, dean and professor emeritus, on Sunday, Feb 28, at a retirement party.

Vickrey, who was dean from 1993 to 2011, received his B.A. and J.D. degrees from Vanderbilt University. He is admitted to the practice of law in South Dakota (active) and Tennessee (inactive). He was previously was on the faculty of the University of North Dakota School of Law for 11 years. At USD, he teaches the required first-year course on property law and the required upper-level course on the legal profession, as well as upper-level elective courses on mediation and legislation. He is also in charge of the South Dakota drafting and legal practice course, which he helped create while dean.

Moot Court Team Makes Semifinals at McGee Tournament; Recognition for Best Oral Advocate

USD law student Jon Hansen was recognized as the outstanding oral advocate at the William E. McGee National Civil Rights Moot Court Competition sponsored by Mitchell Hamline Law School and the USD team advanced to the semifinals of the tournament held last weekend in the Twin Cities.

Hansen is a third-year student from Dell Rapids, South Dakota. He was recognized for his performance in three preliminary rounds and three advanced rounds of the tournament. In each round, Hansen presented an oral argument on behalf of either the petitioner or the respondent in a case involving a Mississippi statute that would force the closure of the only clinic providing abortion services in the state. Unlike most moot court tournaments, which are based on hypothetical cases, this competition required students to write appellate briefs and then argue the issues in an actual case decided by the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit, Currier v. Jackson Women’s Health Organization.

The USD team comprised Hansen, Brianna Palomaki and Jason Thomas advanced to the semifinals of the tournament. They won four of their six rounds, defeating teams from DePaul, St. Thomas, Brigham Young and Chicago-Kent. A second USD team, composed of Kiira Anderson, Austin Hoffman and Pradeep Jayaraman, also competed in the tournament.
Moot Court Team Makes Quarterfinals; Brings Home Award

Ashley Brost and Sam Krystosek competed in the 21st annual Whittier National Juvenile Law Moot Court Competition Feb 5-6 in Costa Mesa, CA. In the twenty-two team field, Ashley and Sam made the quarterfinals and won the tournament’s Distinguished Brief Award. In addition, Ashley was named Distinguished Advocate.

Whittier’s competition is the only annual national moot court competition that exclusively focuses on juvenile law issues. The competition has addressed a wide range of issues that affect juveniles and attracts competitors from law schools across the nation.

BLSA Participates in AWOL’s ‘MLK Day of Service’

In honor of Martin Luther King Day, the Black Lawyers Student Association participated in the USD’s student organization, AWOL’s “MLK Day of Service.” Numerous student organizations throughout campus volunteered in the Vermillion and Yankton area, doing various community service projects. BLSA members were eager to be involved in such an amazing event.

About 12 BLSA members volunteered their time at the Yankton Homeless Shelter; the shelter recently moved locations and needed assistance organizing its large amount of donations. BLSA members worked throughout the day moving boxes, clothing, and furniture all in the name of MLK. MLK stressed the importance of serving the community in any way possible. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said, “Everybody can be great...because anybody can serve...You only need a heart full of grace.”

First year law student, Erin Scott, said, “It felt great to serve today! We might have just help organized donations, but I honestly feel like the work we did greatly benefited the Yankton community. The best part of it all was seeing the gratitude on the shelter’s workers’ faces. I can see why MLK really promoted the idea of community service.”

Not only has BLSA served the community, but the group has also strived to serve the law school by putting on several events that promote diversity and career exploration for all members of the law school. Earlier in the year, BLSA put on a screening of “Glory,” a movie portraying MLK’s life. Additionally, BLSA sponsored a networking and resume workshop to help students perfect their skills for their future careers.

BLSA will be putting on various events in honor of Black History Month like a Black History Trivia night, a panel discussion, and highlighting important Black figures each day on their Facebook page. Look forward to those and help BLSA celebrate Black History Month.

Panel Held on Flint, MI Water Crisis

University of South Dakota professors from multiple backgrounds held a panel discussion last week on issues related to lead-contaminated water in Flint, Michigan, including the role of politics, ethics, science and environmental justice. “The Flint Water Crisis: An American Tragedy” took place 4-5:30 p.m., Monday, Feb. 22, in the School of Law courtroom.

Speakers include Myanna Dellinger, associate professor, law; Sean Kammer, associate professor, law; David C. Lane, assistant professor, sociology; Justin Moss, lecturer, philosophy; and Rick Wang, assistant professor, chemistry. Sarah Christopherson from the law school will moderated.

The panel was sponsored by the Environmental Law Society, USD School of Law and the USD Sustainability Program.

SBA Presents Professor and Adjunct of the Year Awards

The USD Student Bar Association honored two University of South Dakota School of Law professors at its annual event Saturday in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, the Barrister’s Ball.

Professor Thomas Horton received the 2016 John Wesley Jackson Memorial Award for Professor of the Year and adjunct professor Kevin Stoos received the Adjunct of the Year Award.

Horton teaches trial techniques and antitrust & consumer protection at USD Law. He also coaches the law school’s trial teams. His nomination cites his encouraging attitude and dedication to helping students achieve their very best. As recipient of the Jackson Award, Horton will have the honor of assisting the dean of the Law School with hooding the graduates at the annual Hooding Ceremony to be held 3-5 p.m., Friday, May 6, in Aalfs Auditorium on the USD campus in Vermillion. The John Wesley Jackson Memorial Award for Outstanding Professor of Law recognizes USD law professors for their hard work and dedication to excellence at USD Law.

Stoos currently teaches insurance as an adjunct and is serving as the Alternative Dispute Resolution Board advisor and coach. He is cited as being one of the key factors in their success this year. His tireless enthusiasm for teaching and coaching a key factor in his recognition. The Adjunct Professor of the Year Award, inaugurated in 2015, goes to an adjunct who goes above and beyond expectations to help provide an outstanding academic learning environment for law students as well as the amount of time volunteered outside the classroom.

Thirteen Make Fall 2015 Dean’s List

To qualify, students must achieve either a GPA of 85.00 or greater for that semester or rate in the top 10 percent of their class for that semester, whichever group is smaller. The list is not based on cumulative grade point average, and first semester, first-year law students are not eligible.

The students, all of them from South Dakota, named on the Fall 2015 USD School of Law Dean’s List and their hometowns:

- Chris Sommers, Aberdeen
- Trinette LaFleur, Dakota Dunes
- Joseph Erickson, Dell Rapids
- Jon Hansen, Dell Rapids
- Anthony Sutton, Flandreau
- Elliot Bloom, Scenic
- Ashley Blake, Sioux Falls
- Ashley Brost, Sioux Falls
- Shad E. Christman, Sioux Falls
- Sarah Christopherson, Sioux Falls
- Ryan Redd, Sioux Falls
- Alexis Yackley, Vermillion
- Mallory K. Schulte, Yankton

Why Take the Federal Tax Clinic Course?

By Alafia Wright

Question: What Class can I take that will give me actual legal experience? Answer: The Federal Tax Clinic.

What do many students seek, and few students have: actual legal experience. After several semesters of the “Socratic” method of instruction I asked myself what do I actually know how to do that will prepare me for the legal profession—I was not happy with the answer. I have always been a “hands on” learner. If I can find the type of learning environment that would mimic or give me the opportunity to learn while doing, I get more out of it.

The Federal Tax Clinic was exactly what I was looking for. The Tax Clinic gives students the opportunity to handle actual legal disputes for live clients. Student Attorneys, authorized by Congress to represent taxpayers before the Internal Revenue Service, are assigned clients and act as a junior associate handling a case. Student Attorneys develop client counseling and interviewing skills, expand their understanding of legal research, and improve their legal writing skills through memoranda, legal briefs, and client letters. In addition, Student Attorneys are introduced to the systematic management of confidential client information utilizing case management software.

Most importantly, Student Attorneys represent real people with real problems that have real consequences. The unique opportunity to help alleviate impending financial disaster, for many of our clients, is the greatest thing I have experienced while in law school. If you would like to hear more about the Federal Tax Clinic we cordially invite you to come to our Q&A Information Session scheduled for Wednesday March 16, 2016 at 12pm in Law School Room 101. LUNCH (Not Pizza will be provided).

USD Tax Clinic Offers Help With Tax Problems

Though this is typically tax season, South Dakotans can receive legal advice year-round for tax disputes with the IRS at the state’s only Federal Tax Clinic at the University of South Dakota’s School of Law.

The Federal Tax Clinic doesn’t offer tax preparation help unless issues from previous years must be settled before the current year’s taxes can be filed. It does, however, help potential clients with everything from questions to more serious issues such as audits, requesting a stay in collections and preparing tax debt settlements.

By contacting Sonya Miller, clinic director, potential clients can determine whether they qualify for representation based on income and household size. Those who do qualify then work with student attorneys who have special authorization to practice before the IRS under Miller’s supervision. Even South Dakotans who do not meet the criteria can still receive guidance in the form of a consultation.

The clinic serves the entire state and taxpayers don’t need to drive to Vermillion because help is also available by phone, fax, video conference, email and regular mail. Though clients don’t pay for the clinic’s time, they must cover some related costs, such as court filing fees.

“IRS letters can be confusing, but we can help you understand them,” Miller said. “This service takes some of the burden off your shoulders. We can answer your questions, whether the IRS is right or wrong, and give you peace of mind.”

Information about the services offered and eligibility can be found at www.usd.edu/law/federal-tax-clinic.

Crime Experts Explore Netflix's 'Making a Murderer'

A panel of law enforcement experts on Monday will answer questions about the Netflix Original “Making a Murderer” and explain how the situation portrayed in the documentary would play out in South Dakota.

The series, filmed over 10 years, tells how crime suspect Steven Avery was cleared through DNA evidence while exposing corruption in local law enforcement, according to the plot summary.

The Criminal Justice Education Project at the University of South Dakota School of Law will host the panel “A Local Perspective on the Roles and Actions in ‘Making a Murderer’” from 6-9 p.m., Monday, Feb. 29, in the law school courtroom.

Speakers include Traci Smith, Minnehaha County (S.D.) Public Defender’s Office; Kevin Koliner, assistant U.S. attorney in South Dakota; Detective Kevin Heinman, Sioux City (Iowa) Police Dept.; Crystal Brady, Vermillion Police Department; and Darin Cunningham, South Dakota Division of Criminal Investigation.

Women in Law Presents 2015 Attorney of the Year Award

Attorney Elizabeth A. Rosenbaum of Jefferson, SD was named the 2015 South Dakota Attorney of the Year by the University of South Dakota, Women in Law organization. Elizabeth is a 1988 graduate of the USD School of Law and her office is located in Sioux City, Iowa. Elizabeth specializes in the area of Family Law and received this award for her years of work with South Dakota families and children. She was specially recognized for completing her 550th adoption and providing family law legal services to non-traditional families.

What is a legal incubator?

A legal incubator is a supportive environment designed to accelerate the growth and success of small and solo practice law firms. The concept of incubators started in the business field, and can now be found across various fields all with the goal of providing low cost overhead, business planning, and a collaborative environment, which are critical in the early years of any business development. Each legal incubator program reflects the needs of its community.

Through intensive business development trainings, substantive legal trainings, substantive opportunities for direct client services, and direct ongoing mentorship; legal incubator participants are equipped with the confidence, resources, and skillset to run successful practices while representing clients to the highest standards.

What is CLIP – Collaborative Legal Incubator Program?

CLIP will be a one-year “on-the-job training program” for new, socially conscious solo/small firm practitioners. This program is a part of East River Legal Services, Sioux Falls, SD.

CLIP was born out of the idea that SD lawyers can focus on community needs and do more to provide access to justice to low income and modest means clients. In order to do more, SD lawyers need more – they need more mentorship, more direct experience on public interest issues and clients, more substantive legal education and most importantly a supportive environment to build successful legal practices based on best practices in the industry.

CLIP Participant Requirements:

- SD licensed practitioner.
- Carries individual legal malpractice insurance (250/500).
- Onsite location in Sioux Falls, SD, East River Legal Services.
- Committed to starting and building a solo or small firm practice.
- Committed to taking pro bono cases with direct onsite supervision.
- Committed to program’s success during and after its conclusion.

CLIP Participant Benefits:

- Subsidized office space at East River Legal Aid (fax, copy, paper, internet, furniture, conference room etc.) – $0 for first 5 months; $150 for last 7 months.
- Intensive Business Development Training
- Procedural & Substantive law training by practitioners in the field
- Business & Legal Mentoring
- Onsite Supervision and supportive environment for new practitioners
- Ongoing pro bono opportunities*
- Ongoing networking opportunities – legal community & greater community

*See Incubator Participant agreement on what qualifies as pro bono hours for program purposes.

Benefits are being negotiated and are subject to change.
