ACCESS POLICY

The University of South Dakota Law Library is available for use by the faculty, staff, and students of the University of South Dakota School of Law. Graduate and undergraduate students of the University of South Dakota may also utilize the circulating and reserve resources of the McKusick Law Library. University of South Dakota Law Alumni and members of the State Bar of South Dakota may also register to use the library. The Law Library is also open to members of the public. However, public patrons may use materials only in the library and are not able to checkout materials for use outside the Law Library. Additional details on the resources and services available at the University of South Dakota Law Library are available in the Research Guides and LibGuides. In all cases, use of the facilities and resources of the University of South Dakota Law Library are subject to compliance with the laws of South Dakota and the rules of South Dakota Board of Regents and the USD School of Law.

Access to the Law Library after 5 pm on weekdays and all hours on weekends is restricted to law students, law faculty, and law staff. Law students, law staff, and law faculty can enter the library after normal hours by using their University of South Dakota ID card. Other patrons who need to use the law library collection to conduct legal research after regular hours, may be able to arrange to do so at the discretion of the Law Library Director after consultation with the Law School Administration. Requests from USD Graduate Students for use of a limited duration will be given special consideration.

Access to the group study areas located in the Law Library, with limited exception, is on a first come, first serve basis during the semester. Reservations for use of study rooms are coordinated through the USD School of Law Dean’s Suite. During exam and exam preparation periods, reservations for use of the study rooms may be limited to law students.

Authorized Law Library users who compromise the safety of other users or the security of the Law Library collection and equipment by allowing the entrance of unauthorized users after normal Law Library operating hours or by taking actions to overcome security devices may be subject to discipline and loss of after-hours privileges.
