

Students in EDAD 715,

Welcome to The Administrator and Instructional Supervision(EDAD 715). This course has been traditionally designed to teach prospective principals about supervision and evaluation of certificated teachers. In addition, you will learn about the principal's role as an instructional leader. Such topics as teacher recruitment and selection, professional development, curriculum development, and creating teacher leaders will also be discussed. We will also discuss teacher non-renewal for poor performance.

The delivery system of D2L has been chosen for this course. You will all receive an email address which we will use to communicate with each other.

During the first week of class you will receive from me instructions about the online discussions, and a course outline. The student assignments are included in the syllabus. You cannot access the course until the first day.

Robert Mayer

Assistant Professor