INTRODUCTION

The Resource Guide for People with Disabilities is a product of the Center for Disabilities, Department of Pediatrics, Sanford School of Medicine of The University of South Dakota. It is produced with federal funds as part of a grant from the South Dakota Council on Developmental Disabilities. It is our hope that this Resource Guide for People with Disabilities will assist individuals with disabilities, their families, professionals, educators, and the public in their quest for information and resources. The purpose of this Resource Guide for People with Disabilities is to provide you with enough information to identify the agencies and organizations to contact for more detailed information and assistance.

In any collection of information, errors will occur and changes will need to be made. If you find an error or notice any changes that need to be made, please contact the Director of Information and Resources at the Center for Disabilities by using the information below.

CENTER FOR DISABILITIES

The Center for Disabilities is part of a national network of University Centers of Excellence in Developmental Disabilities Education, Research and Service (UCEDD), authorized by the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act. The Center for Disabilities supports the independence, productivity, and inclusion of individuals with disabilities and special health care needs and their families in the community by providing:

Academic Training,
Community Education/Technical Assistance,
Information Dissemination,
Research/Evaluation, and
Services and Supports.

Direct service programs/projects include -

The Autism Spectrum Disorders Program conducts evaluations of individuals suspected of having an Autism Spectrum Disorder; provides follow-up consultations and technical assistance to families and professionals; facilitates family support groups; disseminates information; and provides training for families and professionals.

Birth to 3 Connections works with other agencies to support families with children birth to three years of age with identifying needs and accessing community services. Service Coordinators help families receive developmental screenings, multifaceted-multidisciplinary evaluations, and service coordination.

The Deaf-Blind Program serves individuals from birth through 21 years of age who have a combination of a hearing loss and a vision loss. Services provided through early identification; technical assistance to school districts, professionals and families; information dissemination, referral and support; and linkages to local/national resources.

Reservation Developmental Clinics bring pediatric specialists to conduct monthly comprehensive developmental evaluations on the Cheyenne River Reservation, the Pine Ridge Reservation and the Rosebud Reservation. Working with local health and education

In addition, South Dakota Advocacy Services provides "Partners in Policymaking" training for individuals with disabilities and family members of individuals with disabilities. South Dakota Advocacy Services is part of the Development Disabilities Network in South Dakota along with the South Dakota Council on Developmental Disabilities and the Center for Disabilities.

ADVOCACY

The Coalition is a statewide membership organization. The Coalition believes in the inclusion of all people in all aspects of society and that everyone should have the freedom of choice to pursue their own quality of life. The Coalition assists people in locating services and agencies, which can assist and support persons with disabilities and their families in meeting their needs and reaching their goals. The Coalition provides information and technical assistance on the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), the Rehabilitation Act, the Help America Vote Act and other disability related laws. The Coalition trains individuals and groups about the ADA, coalition building, legislative process, self-advocacy, systems advocacy, disability etiquette and other related topics. The Coalition works with public and private businesses and organizations to help identify ways to make products and services more accessible to all people. The Coalition publishes a bi-monthly newsletter, circulates alerts on state and national issues to a statewide network of advocates on a weekly basis, and provides accessibility reviews of facilities and programs.

South Dakota CARES, Inc., in addition to other services, runs the Recycle for Life Program and the Hearing Aid Lending Program.

The Recycle for Life Program was established as an avenue to recycle previously owned, good -quality durable medical equipment for individuals with disabilities who have limited resources. Durable medical equipment is donated to South Dakota CARES, Inc. by individuals, non-profit organizations or private businesses. Periodic community equipment drives supplement the Recycle for Life Program.

The Hearing Aid Lending Program provides one behind the ear hearing aid to individuals in need. Application approvals are subject to the availability of donated hearing aids, funding, economic status of the individual applying and the assistance of qualified audiologists across South Dakota.

Child Care Services helps low-income families pay for child care while they work, attend school or both. Eligibility is based on the family's gross income and household size. The program helps pay for child care for children under age 13 (or up to age 18 for children with special needs). The amount of child care assistance is paid directly to the child care provider on a biweekly or monthly basis. Child care providers must be licensed or registered, or meet specific, unregulated provider requirements. An unregulated provider may be a relative, an in-home provider or a family friend. Child care providers who care for children with special needs may receive a higher reimbursement rate if they meet certain criteria.

The goal of Children's Special Health Services (CSHS) is to improve health care services for South Dakota children with special health care needs. Pediatric specialists, the primary care physician, registered nurses, social workers and dietitians work together to provide diagnostic, consultative and care coordination services. This team works closely with the child's family to help them meet the needs of the child. CSHS provides financial assistance on a cost-share basis for specified diagnostic procedures and medical treatment for those who qualify. To be eligible for services from Children's Special Health Services the child must:

- Be a resident of South Dakota,
- Be under 21 years of age,
- Have a doctor who accepts responsibility for follow-up and primary care,
- Meet financial requirements or be charged according to the families ability to pay, and
- Have a chronic medical condition that is covered by CSHS.

DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES

Community Support Providers (CSPs) are private not-for-profit agencies receiving funding from numerous state agencies that provide both day and residential services to individuals with developmental disabilities. The agencies primarily serve individuals 16 years and older, although some CSPs also provide services for children. Among the services offered are:

- Community Living Training
- Follow-Along Services
- Home/Community Based Services
- Intermediate Care
- Prevocational Training
- Special Education
- Vocational Rehabilitation Services

To be eligible for services from an Community Support Provider, an individual must be eligible for funding assistance through the Division of Developmental Disabilities, Division of Rehabilitation Services, South Dakota Medical Services, local school districts, other government programs, or be able to pay privately. (For more information on the Division of Developmental Disabilities, Division of Rehabilitation Services or South Dakota Medical Services, please see their entry in this Resource Guide.)

DEVELOPMENTAL DISABILITIES

The mission of the Division of Developmental Disabilities is to support people with developmental disabilities and their families in a manner that is flexible, responsive to individual needs, promotes inclusion, growth and choice, enhances productivity, and is cost effective. The Division purchases services from and is responsible for the oversight of community-based, private, non-profit adjustment training centers (ATCs) [see the entry for ATCs in this Resource Guide to find the ATC nearest you]. The services purchased from these agencies include:

Case Management,
Community Living Training,
Expanded Follow-Along/Support,
ICF/MR Medicaid 24-Hour Services,
Medicaid Home/Community Based Services,
Prevocational Training,
Supported Employment, and
Training and Rehabilitation Services.

The Division of Developmental Disabilities administers the Adult Foster Care Program for adults with disabilities ages 18 to 60 years, the Respite Care program for children with special needs ages birth to 18 years, the Guardianship/Conservatorship Establishment Program and the Family Support Program. For more information on these programs, please see their entries in this Resource Guide. The Division of Developmental Disabilities has Resource Coordination Offices in Pierre, Sioux Falls, Redfield and Rapid City.

Family Support 360 is a program of the Division of Developmental Disabilities, South Dakota Department of Human Services. The Family Support Program provides a variety of services, supports and service coordination to assist families who have children with developmental disabilities living at home. Families not served by a local Family Support 360 program (see listing below) are eligible for assistance through the statewide program. The statewide program provides financial assistance to purchase services and supports but does not offer service coordination. Contact the Family Support 360 Coordinator serving your area for an application or more information.

The South Dakota School for the Deaf (SDSD) serves children and youth with hearing loss by offering services on site and through its outreach program. On-site academic options include (a) a bilingual program for students who use American Sign Language (ASL) in preschool through high school and (b) an auditory/oral program for students who use Spoken English in preschool through third grade. SDSD uses the Sioux Falls School District Curriculum and prepares students to meet state standards. Instruction support in other areas is available as dictated by the Individualized Education Plan, including speech language pathology, auditory training, and special education. SDSD also arranges for dual enrollment of students in their local schools to expand curricular and social options. Outreach staff with training in both educational methods provide support to families and local school district personnel so that students remain in their local districts. Any student in South Dakota with a documented hearing loss can take advantage of services offered through SDSD, including audiological testing, speech evaluation, and triennial multidisciplinary assessment.

The Social Security Administration manages two different disability programs - Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) and Supplemental Security Income (SSI). Both of these programs provide a monthly income for people with disabilities, but the rules that affect eligibility for them are different.

Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) provides benefits to individuals with a disability who are "insured" by workers' contributions to the Social Security trust fund. These contributions are the Federal Insurance contributions Act (FICA) social security tax paid their earnings or those of their spouse or parents. Title II of the Social Security Act authorizes SSDI benefits.

Supplemental Security Income (SSI) makes cash assistance payments to individuals with disabilities (including children under age 18) who have limited income and resources. The Federal Government funds SSI from general tax revenues. Title XVI of the Social Security Act authorizes SSI payments.

These two programs share many concepts and terms. However, there are also many very important differences in the rules affecting eligibility and benefit payments. These differences are important as many individuals may apply or be eligible for benefits under both programs.

Most Social Security Administration publications and other public information materials are available at Social Security Online at www.ssa.gov. Information on local offices is also available at Social Security online.

For more information, contact the Social Security Administration via their website or toll-free number or contact the office nearest you.

The mission of the South Dakota Braille and Talking Book Library is to provide equal access to print materials in a format acceptable to all citizens of South Dakota who cannot read standard print. The inability to read standard print may be caused by a visual impairment that prevents seeing the print, a physical disability that prevents holding the materials and/or turning the pages, or a learning disability caused by an organic dysfunction. The alternative formats include large print, Braille, cassette recording or electronic files.

VISION

Staff members at the South Dakota Rehabilitation Center for the Blind are trained to teach skills that help people who are blind or have a vision impairment lead a full productive life. Upon completion of training, individuals usually return to their community and use these new skills in their home, school or job. Assessment and training in the skills of blindness are available in the following areas:

- Computers (including speech and Braille output)
- Travel (use of white cane)
- Communications (including Braille)
- Home Management (including cooking)
- Manual Arts (use of hand and power tools to build confidence in using the skills of blindness)
- Training Apartments
- Diabetic Education
- Low Vision Services

The South Dakota School for the Blind and Visually Impaired provides a full academic program for students in kindergarten through high school. Teaching materials and methods are adapted to meet the unique needs of the visually impaired. Students learn the skills of blindness including: independent travel (O&M), Braille, activities of daily living, low vision, the use of assistive technology, social skills, career preparation, and recreation and leisure skills. Services to local schools include Outreach Vision Consultants who assist parents and public school teachers, a Transition Specialist to work with local teams to develop appropriate transition plans, and the Comprehensive Multidisciplinary Assessment Program developed to evaluate the student's abilities and current skills. The Loan Library provides educational materials and leisure reading for students as well as a professional collection.
