

Your Coyote Card is your single most important identification at USD.

This multi-purpose ID will be your identification, meal, and library card. You'll use your card for residence hall access, laundry, and vending machines, entry to events, photocopies, printing, supplies, books, and even as a debit card that can be used with campus and community vendors.

There are three main types of funds that your Coyote Card will come in handy for:

Coyote Cash

Coyote Cash is a debit account that can be used at all campus dining locations, as well as many locations around Vermillion. Coyote Cash funds can be used all year round and remain on your account from year to year. You may also use Coyote Cash at on-campus vending and laundry machines, Barnes & Noble, and for printing when Pharos printing funds have been depleted. Please view www.usd.edu/coyotecard for the list of accepted on and off campus locations.

Flex

Flex dollars are the dining funds that will come out of your selected meal plan each semester. You may carry over flex dollars from fall to spring semesters, but you CANNOT carry over after the spring semester. If you run out of flex, you may purchase additional add-on flex dollars which sometimes comes with bonus flex offered as an extra incentive. Flex dollars are accepted at all campus dining locations and the convenience stores on campus.

Pharos

Any USD student, faculty, or staff member with a current Coyote Card, USD username, and password can print in any of the labs where Pharos Uniprint is available. There is a set Pharos allotment for each academic year. Once this allotment has been depleted you can add Coyote Cash for printing. There is a small charge per page for black and white printing and a slightly larger charge per page for color printing.
